

THIRTY-NINE OF MINERS' LEADERS INDICTED TODAY

Houghton, Mich., Grand Jury Returns Bills Against Federation Heads

MOYER HEADS LIST OF INDICTED

Charge of Conspiracy Is Brought Upon Three Separate Counts

DECLARES HE IS NOT SURPRISED

Head of Western Federation Says He Will Have No Trouble in Disproving Charge

HOUGHTON, Mich., Jan. 15.—President Charles H. Moyer of the Western Federation of Miners and thirty-eight other officials of that organization today were indicted for conspiracy on three counts by the Houghton county grand jury which for several weeks has been investigating violence and disorders in connection with the copper miners' strike. The jury returned a partial report at 11:30 this morning. A number of other indictments were reported, but the names of those indicted were not made public.

On Three Counts

The federation officials were indicted on the following counts: First—Conspiracy to restrain laborers from going to work. Second—Conspiracy to restrain imported laborers from going to work. Third—Conspiracy to deprive laborers of their property and rights.

The thirty-nine officials were named in the one indictment. Under the Michigan law the offense charged is a misdemeanor. That the remaining indictments charge more serious offenses was indicated by the fact that Judge Patrick O'Brien, who conducted the grand jury, ordered them withheld until the arrests could be made. It was considered certain by those who have followed the grand jury deliberations closely that they deal with offenses committed at the time of the shooting and forcible ejection from the copper country of President Moyer of the federation.

Moyer Not Surprised

DENVER, Col., Jan. 15.—"I am not surprised at these indictments. We expected that." This was the remark from Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners, when advised by the United Press today that he and thirty-eight associates had been indicted at Houghton, Mich.

"I am entirely at sea, however, as to the specific offenses alleged," he added. "I do not believe the prosecutor can make any jury believe the Western Federation or any of its officials conspired in any way during this strike."

"We have nothing to fear. I will return to Houghton to face these charges whenever I am needed, just as certainly as I returned to Hancock after I was deported. Judge Hilton, our attorney, came in last night and he is preparing a statement which will be given out later. "I want to make only one further remark, and that is that nine of the members of the grand jury were members of the Citizens' alliance."

Those indicted include: President Moyer, Vice President C. E. Mahoney, Thomas Strzich of St. Louis, and Guy E. Miller, Yanko Terech, J. C. Lowney, James Kulick and W. P. Davidson, all members of the executive council of the federation. The others were officials and members of the Calumet, Hancock and South Range locals of the federation.

Exonerate Twenty-seven.

The grand jury reported the exoneration of twenty-seven members of the federation who had been charged with conspiracy to destroy life and property and with unlawful assemblage in connection with the South Range riots on December 10 and 11, when members of the Citizens' alliance, an anti-strike organization, and strikers engaged in a

RAILROAD HEAD COMMITS SUICIDE

Richard Lankford of Southern Railway Asphyxiates Self in Bathroom

TO HAVE BEEN MARRIED SATURDAY

Fiancee Collapses at News of Death Telephoned by the Police

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—Richard Lankford, 35 years old, president and secretary of the Southern railway, committed suicide today in his bachelor apartment at the Osmond apartments, 1142 Pacific street, Brooklyn.

At noon today, Evans Lynch, a colored porter, smelling gas in the hallway, traced it to Lankford's apartment. He opened the door and not finding Lankford, walked to the bathroom and discovered the railroad man lying naked on the floor and the gas jet turned on full force.

The police were immediately notified and after an investigation which disclosed nothing that might explain the situation, they telephoned to Miss Nellie Patterson, Lankford's fiancée, who lives with her brother, H. S. Patterson, at 814 Prospect place. She came instantly to the apartment and when the news was broken to her, she collapsed and is now under a doctor's care. She could throw no light upon the action of Lankford. Miss Patterson said she and Lankford were to be married next Saturday. They have been engaged a year.

RESPONSIBLE FOR EMPLOYEES

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Jan. 15.—That the Western Union is liable for its messenger boys' conduct while on duty, was the decision of a jury which awarded Mrs. Leonora Phillips $10,000 damages. She declared Samuel Kenzel, a messenger boy, was running and knocked her into the street, causing her to fracture her hand and suffer internal injuries.

GET LINE ON THE EXECUTIVE MESSAGE

Will Not Permit Price-fixing Bureau or Leave Character of Trusts to Commission

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—President Wilson will not permit the creation of a price establishing bureau under the proposed anti-trust legislation; neither will he favor granting the proposed industrial commission authority to say whether a trust is "good" or "bad." This developed here today.

The president has about completed his message, which will be delivered in person by him to a joint session of congress, probably next Tuesday. It was said that the provision for the trade commission will not give that body any plenary powers.

Villa's Victorious Troops Swarm in Town Before Starting Capital Campaign

(By a United Press Staff Correspondent.)

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 15.—A single railway line, that of the National Railways of Mexico, from here to Vera Cruz, today afforded the only means by which foreigners in the capital could get out of Mexico. Americans in Mexico City today expressed the fear that the detention of foreigners on the American side of the Rio Grande might arouse the Mexicans to retaliatory tactics. It was officially stated that the Mexican embassy at Washington today would present a formal request to the state department for the release of General Mercado and his followers, who were detained when they fled across the American border from Ojinaga.

Rebels Take Pay Car

VERA CRUZ, Jan. 15.—Mexican rebels early today were in possession of the railway station at Oriental, west of here, on the Inter-oceanic railway. The rebels captured the official pay car of the Inter-oceanic together with the station house and all shipping in the yards, obtaining a considerable sum of money, a large quantity of ammunition, military supplies, food, clothing and much valuable merchandise.

All the constitutionalists are confident and expect little opposition in their southward march.

TOWN HAS WAIST THIRTY FEET WIDE

SALEM, Ore., Jan. 15.—The town of West Woodburn, Marion county, Oregon, is in trouble with state authorities because it has a shape like a fashion plate in the days when women played to "wasp" waists.

Miss Fern Hobbs, Governor West's private secretary, made the discovery. She found that in one place the town was only thirty feet wide, but that it bulged to a width of nearly a mile in other places. The anti-saloon element charged that the "wets" mapped out West Woodburn in this fashion to exclude known prohibitionists. Governor West instructed the district attorney today to begin suit to have the town's incorporation declared void.

Passengers Suffered from Cold but All Are Safe and Warm in Yarmouth

HALIFAX, N. S., Jan. 15.—The government steamer Lansdowne reported shortly after 11 o'clock today that she had taken off the captain and eleven members of the crew of the Cobequid, who spent the night on the wrecked vessel, and was proceeding to St. John. The bottom had been pounded out of the Cobequid, the Lansdowne reported, and the steamer Lady Laurier is standing by. The Lansdowne's work today completed one of the most stirring rescues in the history of the sea.

Suffered from Cold

In the hotels of Yarmouth sixteen passengers and eighty members of the crew of the Cobequid were safe and warm today. Many were suffering from severe frost bites and with the danger now passed the women were on the verge of nervous collapse. From Tuesday morning until late yesterday they were imprisoned in the wrecked steamer with the temperature below zero and no fires save those built in buckets which were carried from cabin to cabin. Everything movable on the deck of the ship was washed away.

Life belts were passed out and the passengers and crew could only wait. The wireless was out of commission for hours at a time, but the operator managed to send a feeble wave with the batteries yesterday morning. A fisherman also sighted the Cobequid and spread the news. A half dozen steamers hurried to Trinity Ledges, but the Westport and John L. Cann were the first to arrive.

Save Women First

With the women going over the side first, seventy-two persons were lowered into lifeboats and transferred to the Westport. Twenty-four members of the crew were then taken aboard the Cann. Captain Hawson and eleven members of the crew decided to remain with the stricken ship until today.

TRADE RELATIONS COMMITTEE MEETS

Probe Garment Strike Preparatory to Report to President Wilson

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—Mrs. J. Borden Harriman of New York, a member of the committee on industrial relations appointed by President Wilson to investigate labor conditions through the nation, took active part in the commission's investigation of the garment workers' dispute with manufacturers, which was begun here today.

Mrs. Harriman, at whose suggestion the investigation is being held, questioned each witness personally. She is the first woman ever appointed to a similar national body.

The investigation is being held on the eve of a meeting of a board of arbitration, appointed at the close of a strike of 1910, which may result in another general garment workers' strike.

The board will meet here Saturday to discuss a dispute which has arisen over the union's retention of Isaac A. Hourwich as clerk of its grievance board. The employers have asked his dismissal on grounds that he favors strikes. The unions voted to retain him and union officials have indicated they will ignore the summons of the board of arbitration. This would automatically break the protocol which has kept peace between the workers and employers since 1910.

The national commission has no power to interfere in the dispute. It is meeting here for the sole purpose of obtaining first hand information for President Wilson, to be used by him in his consideration of the national labor problem.

John B. Lennon of Bloomington, Ill., is acting chairman. S. T. Ballard of Louisville, and James O'Connell of Washington, are the other members, besides Mrs. Harriman, who are present. The other five commissioners are absent.

OHIO MINERS ASK RAISE

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 15.—A demand from Ohio coal miners for higher wages seemed likely to prove a hard nut for the committee of miners and operators representing Indiana, Ohio, Illinois and Western Pennsylvania, which went into conference here today. DAM BREAKS AND FREES BIG FLOOD

West Virginia River Is Swollen when Six Hundred Acre Reservoir Is Suddenly Emptied

LOSS ALREADY QUARTER MILLION

Potomac Valley Is Panic-stricken and People Flee to Hills with Belongings

CHARLESTOWN, W. Va., Jan. 15.—Homes and other buildings valued at more than a quarter of a million were swept from their foundations shortly after noon, when the middle section of the West Virginia Pulp & Paper company's dam collapsed, according to reports from Cumberland, Md. All the water in the six hundred acre reservoir is said to have emptied into the Stony river.

The flood wave has now reached the Potomac, already ten feet higher than the flood mark and is rushing upon Keyser and Piedmont. The telegraph station at Baline and a number of buildings nearby have probably gone, according to reports to officials here.

ELKINS, W. Va., Jan. 15.—Hundreds of inhabitants of the Potomac valley fled to the hills early today when warned that the dam of the West Virginia Pulp & Paper company, above Dobbin, on Stony river, a stream which is tributary to the south branch of the Potomac, had gone out. Five hundred residents of Dobbin immediately evacuated the town.

When the first break occurred this morning, warnings were sent by telephone for miles down the little valley. At every settlement people hastily gathered what few belongings they could carry and fled to the surrounding hills, driving their livestock with them.

LINER CARRYING 300 IS OVERDUE

Fear Felt for Safety of Hamburg-American Vessel Dania; No Word Heard

HAVANA, Jan. 15.—Grave fears for the safety of the Hamburg-American liner Dania, long overdue, with 300 passengers, were increased today when the steamship company's local agents admitted they had heard nothing from the vessel since she cleared the Azores for this port.

Numerous wireless messages to the Dania have been dispatched from the aeries here and from other liners at sea since Monday, when the Dania was due here, but up to today no reply has been heard.

The Dania is a staunch vessel and the agents try to reassure anxious inquirers by explaining that the violent storms of the last few days probably blew the ship from her course.

cano catastrophe which began on Monday, following the days of intermittent earthquakes. Many of the 70,000 fled to places of safety and eventually will be found, but the authorities fear that thousands perished. No attempts yet have been made to estimate the casualties.

The first refugees reaching here today from Kagoshima said that hundreds of Kagurashima folk drowned in frantic attempts to swim to the mainland.

More than 150 earthquakes were felt, the refugees said, before the eruption started. The tremors began on Saturday and continued over Sunday. The people of Sakurashima were in panic, and hundreds of them fled to the mainland. The horrible noises coming from the bowels of the earth frightened the people of Kagoshima indescribably and they prepared for flight.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

The Good Luck of Toody Ruggles.

"A NUMBER of rich ladies," began daddy, "at the seashore one day last summer had been throwing pennies from a bridge into the water for a lot of little poor boys who were diving for them. The water was quite a good deal over their heads, but the little boys were marvelous divers and swimmers, having always lived by the water. The ladies kept on throwing pennies time and time again to see the wonderful dives the little boys were able to make. They would dive straight down into the water and stay down ever so long and then come up, each one holding a glittering bright penny."

"But, alas, a dreadful thing happened. One of the ladies in throwing pennies dropped off her finger and into the deep water a most beautiful diamond ring."

"Oh, dear," she cried in dismay, "that was the ring I valued most and cared more for than any piece of jewelry I had. I shouldn't have worn it, though, for it was much too loose for that finger. Whatever shall I do without it? I was so, so fond of it!"

"At once the little boys offered to dive for it, for it had been by the throwing of pennies to them that the lady had lost her much prized ring, and they wanted, of course, to get it back for her."

"So again and again they dived, but as none of them had seen her drop it they couldn't judge where it had been dropped."

"Now, Toody Ruggles was perhaps the best little diver of all, and yet even he had been so far unsuccessful, but at last he thought he saw it shining down among some weeds. The lady, however, had just about given up hopes of ever seeing her ring again when, lo and behold, up came Toody, his wet little face wreathed in smiles, carrying the beautiful ring. The lady was overpowered with joy and gave Toody a most wonderful reward."

"Oh, how happy Toody Ruggles was! At home he had one little sister who was very fragile and delicate. As their parents had both died, Toody was trying his best to look after his sister and himself by selling newspapers and carrying suit cases from the station. Lately, though, the doctor had told him that his sister must have plenty of fruit to build her up and to make her regain her strength, and this poor Toody was unable to afford."

"But now he had the wonderful reward from the lady, and all the other boys were delighted that Toody had been the lucky one."

"Toody at once began to give his little sister delicious fruits. Soon the color came back to her cheeks, and she grew well and strong. So Toody's worry that he might lose his beloved little sister was over, and through his good luck that little home once more became very, very happy."

SPARTA, WIS.

When the contest for the guardianship of thirteen year old Cassie Whitney of Wyeville came up for settlement in county court yesterday, Judge Richards after considering the matter appointed Attorney W. B. Naylor of Tomah as guardian. It is reported that Mr. Naylor will leave the child, for the present at least, in charge of the present custodians, Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Reynolds. This contest was brought about through the application of the mother, who is Mrs. Baur of Janesville, for guardianship of the little girl, after a separation from her of more than ten years. The child when three years old was taken by the Whitneys of Tomah, and cared for by them until their death some years ago, from them receiving the name by which she is now known. The child, since their death, has lived in the home of C. O. Reynolds.

To Keep Skin Healthy, Youthful Wrinkleless

Now that the social season is here, be especially careful to keep your skin in fine condition. You know how conspicuous complexion defects appear under the bright light of the drawing or ball room. Also how very evident are some makeups when similarly illuminated. I have myself discarded cosmetics entirely, using a process which gives far better results, and which leaves no trace on the skin. At night I smear on a thin coat of ordinary mercurized wax, washing it off next morning. This gradually absorbs the devitalized particles of surface skin; just as gradually the more youthful skin beneath comes forth, providing a complexion as clear, smooth and delicately tinted as a young girl's. Get an ounce of mercurized wax at your druggist's and try this remarkable treatment. Remember, too, that wrinkles, even the finer lines, are not easily concealed in a brilliantly lighted room. You can quickly obliterate these hateful marks by bathing your face in a solution of powdered salolite, 1 oz., dissolved in witch hazel, ½ pt. And your face won't look sticky, as after using paste.—Aunt Sally in Woman's Realm.—Advertisement.

Pimples Will Not Be Pardoned

The Failure to Use Stuart's Calcium Wafers, a Proved Remedy for Pimples, Convicts You of Unpardonable Negligence.

Pimples are an offense to others and a crime against yourself. People have only tolerated you because they considered the condition of your face to be a misfortune against which you had no remedy. But now that it is universally known that Stuart's Calcium Wafers will cure the worst cases of pimples, blackheads, blotches, eruptions, and liver-spots, your continued negligence will be considered inexcusable.

The person with a pimply face is always unattractive and at a disadvantage in society. Those ugly disfigurements set at naught the effect of the most perfect features. If your face and figure had the classical outlines of a Greek statue, a mass of pimples would still destroy your beauty. A clear, fresh skin is absolutely essential to any real beauty.

"I Feel Like I Am In Jail, I Am So Ashamed of These Pimples."

A beautiful complexion is entirely dependent on a rich, pure, abundant supply of blood to the skin. Calcium sulphide has long been recognized as the most effective of blood purifiers. Quickly converting all impurities into gaseous form that readily escapes from the pores, it purifies the most vitiated blood in remarkably short order. Calcium sulphide is the chief constituent of Stuart's Calcium Wafers, which contain besides, certain mild alteratives that invigorate the blood. You will be surprised at the rapidity with which all face disorders will disappear, once the blood has been cleansed of its impurities through their use.

Stop being a nuisance and an annoyance to other people. You have a right to beauty and health and happiness. You have a right to the admiration and respect of others. Take the step that will gain you all of these. Get a 50c box of Stuart's Calcium Wafers of your druggist and win back your birthright of beauty.

THE TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

SEEKING SUITORS

By MOLLY McMASTER

(Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Edna could not remember when she had not taken a more or less motherly interest in John Ford. When he grew to manhood she realized that more than ever he would require a practical head to work along with him. He had early developed the temperament of an artist, and it was with no slight forebodings that she watched his mind mature rapidly in every direction save practicality. He remained a bland, visionary dream-child even to the age of three-and-twenty.

Vagaries and all, John Ford was going to scale the ladder of fame. Any one could see that. His early sketches were rich with promise, and it was all the more worrisome to Edna that he should travel the road to fame so badly equipped with worldly lore.

"One would think you were living in 'Grimm's Fairy Tale' days, rather than the twentieth century," Edna was wont to tell him. "You cannot carry me off to the Latin Quarter in Paris with you simply because you want me."

"There's no harm in it," muttered John petulantly. "Because I have plenty of money and you have not is no reason why you should hang back."

"My dear John," laughed Edna, "I am not 'hanging back' because of monetary consideration. There is such a thing in the world as convention, though it seems to have escaped your notice. If I were your aunt or your sister the arrangement would be ideal. I simply pine to go to Paris. I could have no end of fun while you were painting under the great masters. But—I am not even your third cousin."

"Oh! Hang it all Edna—I need you. That's all there is about it. Couldn't you marry me?" He gazed joyfully back at her as if he had hit upon a splendid solution of his difficulty.

"Marry you? Foolish boy. I do not love you in that way." A peculiarly tender smile flitted across her eyes. "And you don't care for me—that way." Her smile lightened. "But why not spend these next few months before you go to Paris in seeking a suitable wife for you. You always have and always will be far better off with a nice, sensible girl to look out for you."

"There are no nice girls in the world but you," he affirmed, doggedly.

Edna laughed. "There are many of them—and we will find one for you this season."

Ford smiled boyishly. "What will you do without me—to guide?" he questioned half seriously.

"Perhaps I can find a suitable husband," she suggested.

Ford looked quickly back at her. "I am not the least bit sure I want you to find any one," he said.

"Well, dear boy, if the worst comes to the worst and we fail to find

FROM THE SISTERS OF ST. MARY

Greatful Letter Tells of Good Results Obtained by Using Father John's Medicine for Colds and Coughs

We have permission to quote from the following letter recently received from the Sisters of St. Mary at Farnham, N. Y.: The sisters who have been taking Father John's Medicine are perfectly cured of their cough after having tried several other kinds of cough medicine without the least beneficial effects. We are sincerely grateful and would like to recommend Father John's Medicine to all as the very best for the most stubborn coughs and colds. Gratefully yours. (Signed) Sisters of St. Mary, Farnham, N. Y.

It is important to remember that Father John's Medicine is so valuable in the treatment of colds because it is composed of nourishing food elements which give new strength and rebuild wasted tissue. Father John's Medicine is a doctor's prescription, and is free from alcohol or dangerous drugs in any form. Thousands of mothers give it to their children to build them up at this time of the year.

either a girl for you or a man for me—perhaps we could make a go of it together. But first I am going to search among our belles for one that has a warm steady tone; one that will lend beauty and strength to your life."

During the following weeks Edna kept a keen lookout for the right girl for John. She hoped, with a little wishful feeling about her heart, that when the girl did appear there would also come a man for her own affection to center on. It would be desperately lonesome without a dream-child to guide.

John painted and sketched and was happy. He was, as usual, content to exist in the realms of fancy. Edna had always looked out for him and protected him from worldly worry. She would no doubt always do so.

Ever and anon he found himself in the company of girls whom he was most evidently expected to interest himself in. Edna maneuvered cleverly, watching for results, first with Nora Bayes, then with Kitty Wood, later with Sylvia Gordon, and at last in desperation she tried the beautiful and clever Grace Stuyvesant.

"I cannot stand any of them," cried John; "they one and all bore me to extinction. Sylvia is mad on bridge; Nora talks of nothing but cubists; Kitty wonders why I am not interested in her poodle dog and Grace drags me to afternoon teas." He laughed wearily. "If you fling any more girls at my head, Edna, I will either fly into a monastery or insist on your marrying me."

Edna sighed. "I see, of course, that none of these girls could make you happy or help you in your career, but, still—" She gazed anxiously at his irresponsible smile.

"I'll tell you what we will do," he suggested. "We will walk up to our topmost view from the hills this afternoon and talk things over. The sun will be drifting down behind that line of firs and the whole world will be silent. I know you will feel the emotion of parting from me—up there. Perhaps, it will make you decide to marry me."

Edna was a trifle startled at John's plan. She had never supposed him capable of deliberating on the outcome of sensations stirred by the wonders of nature.

She laughed off her fears. "You would be winning me under false circumstances," she told him, "and we would regret—when there were no sunsets and brooding stillness—to quicken our fancy. However, I am willing that we should have a long talk," she added.

John did not reply. He was looking down at the peculiarly lovely modeling of Edna's hand. It had dropped carelessly among the laces and ribbons she was sewing on. John did not know that she was mending old garments that many women would have thrown away; nor did he realize that the rug beneath Edna's feet was threadbare and that there was not one item of beauty in the room. Edna herself made all things wonderful. The little smile that curved her lips was of unutterable sweetness. There was contentment and happiness in every breath from her body. John fell into meditation and strolled aimlessly about, picking up odds and ends about the room.

Suddenly and without any kind of warning he dropped down on his knees beside Edna and his lips pressed themselves against the hand lying amidst the laces and ribbons. "It's no use," he spoke rapidly in a voice that had all the depth and wonderment of a great passion. "I cannot go away next week without you. I want you more than anything in the universe. I could not paint, or breathe or dream—if you were sit-

THESE MEN SPEAK FROM EXPERIENCE

La Crosse people may find interest in the following editorial taken from the Milwaukee Free Press:

"Mayor Sorensen of La Crosse has occupied a peculiarly favorable position for judging the workings of both segregation (so-called) and the enforcement, though only to a limited extent, of the law against commercialized vice.

"When he first took office he shared the popular tradition about the necessity of a 'red light' district, and was instrumental in re-establishing such a district in La Crosse. During the interim between his first and second terms that district was again closed, and it has not been reopened during his second term.

"So Mayor Sorensen has had first-hand official opportunity to observe and study the effects of each policy.

"This observation and study have convinced this man, who was once a confirmed segregationist, that the arguments in favor of a vice district are without foundation, that such a district is unnecessary and does not in fact possess any of those advantages that are claimed for it. On the contrary, he has found that its abolition, instead of being fraught with the dire consequences predicted by the segregationists, has improved the moral conditions in La Crosse.

"The importance of such testimony cannot be over-estimated. It is not the testimony of a theorist or of an idealist. It is the testimony of a practical man who has been converted by the sheer force of concrete evidence.

"The mayor's experience bears out what the Free Press has claimed so many times that those good citizens who still advance the old claims for what they call 'segregation' are merely parroting the text of an ancient and accepted sophistry by means of which society has long sidestepped its responsibility.

"But once let these good citizens investigate the actual workings of the illegal toleration of commercialized vice, and that with sincere and open minds, and they will become convinced, even like the mayor of La Crosse, that it is a tragic farce, a miserable failure.

"They will find, too, that wherever the law is enforced against commercialized vice, even though halfheartedly as in Milwaukee or imperfectly as in La Crosse, the moral conditions are none the less greatly improved—an earnest of what could be done if the agencies of law and order would join hands in a consistent and continued campaign for the elimination of immoral resorts.

"If these still exist, as they do in both La Crosse and Milwaukee, their cause is not to be found in the absence of a vice district, but in the refusal of the authorities to do their full duty. The remedy for that, pending some possible coercive action by the state, is to be found in citizens' organizations that will take the enforcement of the law into their own hands."

Mayor Sorensen is not the only man who disapproved of Dr. Anderson's order closing the "district," but who has since changed his mind. Judge John Brindley, of the county court, who has long displayed a deep interest in social problems, has experienced the same revulsion of feeling following experience with both methods. Judge Cronon, of the municipal court, also has come to regard elimination as better than segregation. So has Chief of Police John Webber.

Can a more significant situation be imagined? Having lived in a "segregated" city always, mayor, chief of police, municipal and county judge were sure segregation was the better way. Then came elimination, and after four years of the new experience they all change their minds positively and declare against segregation. These are they, of all men in La Crosse, who have the best opportunity to judge from first hand experiences. They have seen both methods in operation, and they KNOW.

A CROOKED LITTLE STORY EXPOSED

Among the misrepresentations involved in the discussion of the vice investigation was a statement widely circulated to the effect that the members of the committee draw $30 a day for their work. Answering an inquiry by the Tribune, L. B. Nagler, assistant secretary of state, writes as follows:

"Office of the Secretary of State, Madison, Wisconsin.

"The Tribune,

"La Crosse, Wis.

"Gentlemen:

"The members of the legislative vice committee receive no pay, only actual expenses."

"L. B. NAGLER,
"Asst. Secretary of State."

The total pay of these men is $500 for the session, which lasted seven months, and for that sum this additional work is imposed upon them. Perhaps, now, we shall have no more of this crooked little story.

By the way, this is NOT a "commission," as it has been called with a certain intended significance, but simply a committee of the legislature.

ROETHE "IN HANDS OF HIS FOOL FRIENDS"

And now comes Henry E. Roethe, of Fenimore, and accepts an "urgent call" from somewhere—the "wild," perhaps—to become a candidate for the republican nomination for governor.

We recall Mr. Roethe as the man who recently introduced a bill to abolish most of the state commissions, but if a better epitome of his qualifications were wanted we would turn to John Strange's endorsement, in which that papier mache politician forgets his ego long enough to say:

"In the three terms which he has served in the legislature, Mr. Roethe has been noted for his opposition to the passage of any laws except those absolutely necessary."

Now, that gives it to us, in a nutshell. Mr. Roethe is the apostle of the "let-us-alone" cult. His record, in fact, is a daisy. Repeat existing law, make no more laws. Mr. Strange's recollection is that in a single session Roethe introduced fourteen separate bills each of which "wiped out a commission or board he deemed unnecessary." That is the way Mr. Strange put it—"wiped out." Of course the bills didn't really "wipe out" anything, for they were promptly "wiped out" by the legislature. In fact, Roethe "wiped out" the commissions exactly as he will be elected governor.

A new form of the duel has been introduced in Kentucky. You clasp the left hand of your antagonist and with your right fill him full of bullets, while he does the same thing for you. On the very first trial it proved successful.

New York city has a woman commissioner of correction. Why not? We ask it of every married man.

There is at least one New Year's resolution not hard to keep. It is swearing off swearing off.

Preferred the Upper Berth

While in Boston a while ago I went over to East Boston on the ferry. There was a steam shovel at work out in the harbor, and I was standing watching it. Suddenly I felt a tap on my shoulder and turned around to find a son of Erin standing there. "Say," said he, "isn't this a wonderful country? By gorry, now, just look at that thing going down there, now. Look at it. Isn't that wonderful? But, say, old man, I wouldn't want to be the guy at the bottom filling that thing up, would you?"

BIG EATERS GET KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts at first sign of Bladder irritation or Backache.

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble, because we eat too much and all our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter out. They weaken from overwork, become sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather is bad get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys; to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; does not injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water beverage, and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time. Chas. A. Beyer, Druggist, 503 Main St.

TREE FOOT RISE NOTED IN RIVER

M'GREGOR, Iowa, Jan. 15.—Following the drop in temperature the first of the week an ice gorge has formed below McGregor causing a rise of nearly three feet in the Mississippi within twenty-four hours. J. Doyle, superintendent of the west pontoon, who has studied ice conditions at this point for forty years, gives the cause of these rapid rises of the Mississippi at ice forming times as this.

The current of the Wisconsin being much swifter than that of the Mississippi, the Mississippi freezes over while ice is yet running in the Wisconsin. The run of ice from the Wisconsin as it encounters the Mississippi two miles below McGregor is crowded under the frozen surface and moving down with the current meets a short distance below a shallow part of the channel and piles up, making a solid wall of ice from the bed of the river to the surface. The water is dammed back and a sudden rise occurs, affecting the Mississippi sometimes as far north as Waukon Junction. The rise continues until either the Wisconsin freezes or the Mississippi wears through the gorge. In early days General Lawler, who had control of all transportation between Prairie du Chien and McGregor was puzzled to account for these quick local rises in the river. Suspecting the Wisconsin might be the cause he stationed a man there to watch conditions and found the situation to be as described by Mr. Doyle.

WOMAN IN BAD CONDITION

Restored To Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Montpelier, Vt.—"We have great faith in your remedies. I was very irregular and was tired and sleepy all the time, would have cold chills, and my hands and feet would be cold. My stomach bothered me, I had pain in my side and a bad headache most of the time. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me lots of good and I now feel fine. I am regular, my stomach is better and my pains have all left me. You can use my name if you like. I am proud of what your remedies have done for me."—MRS. MARY GAUTHIER, 21 Ridge St., Montpelier, Vt.

An Honest Dependable Medicine

It must be admitted by every fair-minded, intelligent person, that a medicine could not live and grow in popularity for nearly forty years, and to-day hold a record for thousands upon thousands of actual cures, as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, without possessing great virtue and actual worth. Such medicines must be looked upon and termed both standard and dependable by every thinking person.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

Hear the rattle of the coal, Expensive coal. As it shoots into the hole. Hear it rumble, hear it roll, Hear it clatter, hear it bowl. With a sound that rends the soul. Darn the coal.

See the man. He brings the bill, Expensive bill. See him stand and wait until We have telephoned the mill For the dough, his wants to fill. Yes, our bank account is nil, Bitter pill.

Steadiness Personified

Mike Reagan applied to Mrs. Stone for position as chauffeur, and gave the name of a friend as reference.

Mrs. Stone sought the friend and asked:

"Mr. Brady, your neighbor, Michael Reagan, has applied to me for a place as chauffeur. Is he a steady man?"

"Steady!" cried Brady. "Indade, mum! If he wuz anny steadier he'd be dead."

A Waiter With a Tip

Mr. Evans entered a New York restaurant and saw a friend seated at one of the tables.

"Hello, Lovell," he said, "how are you?"

"Oh, pretty well," replied Lovell. "What are you doing now?" inquired Evans.

"Well, when I came in here," said Lovell, "about two hours ago I was not in business, but I've changed since then. I'm a waiter now."—Pittsburgh Magazine.

Bound to Be Ready

The family were to leave town on the 2 o'clock train, so the mother said, as she was hurrying along the preparations for departure.

"Now, children, get all ready to go before luncheon. Don't leave a single thing to be done at the very last minute."

The children said they wouldn't. Luncheon ended, they hurried into their wraps and started. In the hall their mother said:

"Edward, you didn't brush your teeth."

"Yes, mother, I did," said Edward. "But you didn't have time," she persisted. "Why, you just this minute got up from the table."

"I know that," said Edward, "but we were in such a hurry that I brushed 'em before I ate."

The Real Limit

Mrs. Knicker—Is your husband hard to get along with?

Mrs. Becker—Very. If I give him a poor dinner he wants a divorce, and if I give him a good dinner he calls it lobbying.

Not Suitable

"You mean to tell me that box is an ideal place to keep beef and chops and eggs?"

"Yes, sir," replied the man who was selling refrigerators.

"Why, a burglar could break into that without even using nitroglycerine."—Washington Star.

Rambling Wickedness

The late Patrick Ford, Ireland's best friend in America, was talking one day in "The Irish World" office about the English.

"They are so sanctimonious, especially toward the Irish," he said, "and their sanctimoniousness, by Jove, isn't hypocrisy—it's stupidity."

"They're like my friend Bishop Eighty, who has just bought a two-horsepower runabout."

"I never knew till I got a car," said Bishop Eighty, "that profanity was so extremely prevalent."

"Do you hear much of it on the road?" I asked.

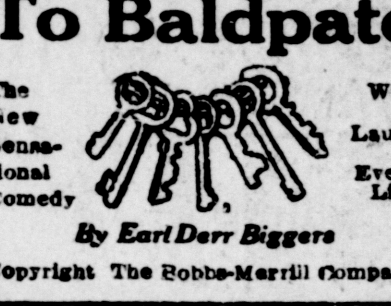

"Why," said the bishop, "nearly everybody I bump into swears dreadfully."

Parsing

Up in Alaska there used to be a district attorney who was long on native oratory, but short on education. Once while prosecuting a big case, coming to the finish of his argument, he leaned across the rail and made this plea:

"All I asks of you, gentlemen of the jury, is that you now retire and mete out justice as you deserve to be met."—St. Louis Mirror

Seven Keys To Baldpate

The New Sensational Comedy
By Earl Derr Biggers
Copyright The Robt-Merrill Company

"Scared," said Mr. Peters, "of temptation. Your seventh son of a seventh son friend here has read my palm O. K. I want to go back. Not in the summer, when the inn blazes like Broadway every evening, and I can sit here and listen to the latest comic opera tunes come drifting up from the casino, and go down and mingle with the muslin brigade any time I want, and see the sympathetic look in their eyes as they buy my postals. It ain't then I want to go back. It's when fall comes, and the trees on the mountain are bare, and Quimby locks up the inn, and there's only the wind and me on the mountain—then I get the fever. I haven't the post-card trade to think of—so I think of Ellen, and New York. She's my wife. New York—it's my town."

"That's why I can't come among you to cook. It'd be leading me into temptation greater than I could stand. I'd hear you talk, and like as not when you went away I'd shave off this beard, and burn the manuscript of 'Woman', and go down into the marts of trade. Last night I walked the floor till two. I can't stand such temptation."

Mr. Peters' auditors regarded him in silence. He rose and moved toward the kitchen door.

"Now you understand how it is," he said. "Perhaps you will go and leave me to my baking."

"One minute," objected Mr. Magee. "You spoke of one lie—your masterpiece. We must hear about that."

"Yes—spin the yarn, pal," requested Mr. Max.

"Well," said the hermit reluctantly, "if you're quite comfortable—it ain't very short."

"Please," beamed Miss Norton.

With a sigh the Hermit of Baldpate Mountain sank upon a most unsocial seat and drew his purple splendor close.

"It was like this," he began. "Five years ago I worked for a fruit company, and business sent me sliding along the edges of strange seas and picture-book lands. I met little brown men, and listened to the soft swish of the banana growing, and had an orchestra seat at a revolution or two. Don't look for a magazine story about overthrown tyrants, or anything like that. It's just a quiet little lie I'm speaking of, told on a quiet little afternoon, by the sands of a sea as blue as Baldpate Inn must have been this morning when I didn't show up with the breakfast."

"Sitting on those yellow sands the afternoon I speak of, wearing carpet slippers made for me by loving, so to speak, hands, I saw Alexander McMan come along. He was tall and straight and young and free, and I envied him, for even in those days my figure would never have done in a clothing advertisement, owing to the heritage of too many table d'hotes about the middle. Well, McMan sat at my side, and little by little, with the sea washing sad-like near by, I got from him the story of his exile, and why."

"I don't need to tell you it was woman had sent him off for the equator. This one's name was Marie, I think, and she worked at a lunch-counter in Kansas City. From the young man's bill-of-fare description of her, I gathered that she had cheeks like peaches and cream, but a heart like a lunch-counter doughnut, which is hard."

"She cost you off?" I asked.

"She threw me down," said he. "Well, it seems he'd bought a ticket for that loud-colored country where I met him, and come down there to forget."

"I could buy the ticket," he said, "as soon as I learned how to pronounce the name of this town. But I can't forget. I've tried. It's hopeless." And he sat there looking like a man whose best friend had died, owing him money. I won't go into his emotions. Mr. Bland, up at the inn, is suffering them at the present moment, I'm told. They're unimportant; I'll hurry on to the lie. I simply say he was sorrowful, and it seemed to me a crime, what with the sun so bright, and the sea so blue, and the world so full of a number of things. Yes, it certainly was a crime, and I decided he had to be cheered up at any cost. How? I thought a while, gazing up at the sky, and then it came to me—the lie—the great glorious lie—and I told it."

The hermit looked in defiance round the listening circle.

"You're chuck full of sorrow now," I said to McMan, "but it won't last long. He shook his head. 'Nonsense,' I told him. 'Look at me. Do you see me doing a heart-bowed-down act under the palms? Do you find anything but joy in my face?' And he couldn't, the lie unfolding itself in such splendor to me. 'You' he asked. 'Me,' I said. 'Ten years ago I was where you are today. A woman had spoken to me as Mabel—or Marie—or what was it?—spoke to you.'

"I could see I had the boy interested. I unfolded my story, as it occurred to me at the moment. 'Yes,' said I, 'ten years ago I saw her first. Dancing as a butterfly dances from flower to flower. Dancing on the stage—a fairy sprite. I loved her—worshipped her. It could never be. There in the dark of the wings, she told me so. And she shed a tear—a sweet tear of sorrow at parting."

"I went to my room," I told McMan, "with a lot of time-tables and steamship books. Bright red books—the color came off on my eager hands. I picked out a country, and sailed away. Like you, I thought I could never be happy, never even smile, again. Look at me."

"He looked, I guess my face radiated bliss. The idea was so lovely. He was impressed—I could see it. 'I'm supremely happy,' I told him. 'I am my own master. I wonder where I will. No woman tells me my hour for going out, or my hour for coming in. I wonder. For company I have her picture—as I saw her last—with twinkling feet that never touched earth. As the spirit moves, I go. You can move the memory of a woman in a flash, my boy, but it takes two months to get the real article started, and then like as not she's forgot everything of importance. Ever thought of that? You should. You're going to be as happy as I am. Study me. Reflect. I wave my carpet-slippers feet toward the palms. I had certainly made an impression on Alexander McMan."

"As we walked back over the sands and grass-green streets to the hotel, his heart got away from that cupid's lunch-counter, and he was almost cheerful. I was gay to the last, but as I parted from him my own heart sank. I knew I had to go back to her, and that she would probably give me a scolding about the carpet slippers. I parted from McMan with a last word of cheer. Then I went to the ship—to her. My wife. That was the lie, you understand. She traveled everywhere with me. She never trusted me."

STRIKERS PLANT DYNAMITE

JOHANNESBURG, Jan. 15.—Fresh discoveries today of dynamite throughout Johannesburg, alleged to have been planted by the railway strikers, caused armed guards to be placed over the Rand club, newspaper offices, banks, mining buildings and public offices.

SWEETS TO SWEET

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 15.—When a cask of syrup being delivered to a local restaurant broke as it was being lifted off the wagon today a passing pedestrian received a syrup bath. The deluged one was A. J. Sweet of the Milwaukee City club.

WESTERNER TAKES CHARGE OF STRIKE

Canadian Chief of Western Miners Enters the Calumet District

CALUMET, Mich., Jan. 15.—William Davidson of British Columbia, member of the executive council of the Western Federation of Miners, arrived in Hancock today to take charge of the conduct of the copper miners' strike. Davidson refused to outline the policy which he would pursue except to say that it would be a "fight to the finish."

Three strikers were arrested today at Ahmeek on warrants charging them with assaulting mounted deputies.

Although it was reported from Big Rapids last night that Gov. Ferris was preparing to advance a new plan for settlement of the Michigan copper strike today, no word was received from him either by the mining company's officials or officials of the Western Federation of Miners.

Persistent reports that the grand jury has been probing strike violence and the deportation of President Charles H. Moyer of the federation, was to return indictments today, were denied by Special Prosecutor Nichols. He indicated that the jury might make its report tomorrow.

MEN BIASED; TO CALL WOMEN

MARYSVILLE, Cal., Jan. 15.—Owing to the scarcity of male veniremen, it is likely that women will be summoned to serve on the jury which will try four former Wheatland hop field strikers on charge of murder, here. Practically all of the scores of veniremen examined so far have admitted bias.

Throw Away Your Eye-Glasses!

A Free Prescription

You Can Have Filled and Use at Home.

Do you wear glasses? Are you a victim of eye-strain or other eye-weaknesses? If so, you will be glad to know that there is real hope for you. Many whose eyes were failing, say they have had their eyes restored through the principle of this wonderful free prescription. One man says, after trying it: "I was almost blind; could not see to read at all. Now I can read everything without any glasses and my eyes do not water any more. At night they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me." A lady who used it says: "The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for fifteen days everything seems clear. I can even read fine print without glasses." It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them in a reasonable time and multitudes more so as to be spared the trouble and expense of ever getting glasses. Eye troubles of many descriptions may be wonderfully benefited by following the simple rules. Here is the prescription: Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Optona. Fill a two ounce bottle with warm water, drop in one Optona tablet and allow to dissolve. With this liquid, bathe the eyes two to four times daily. You should notice your eyes clear up perceptibly right from the start and inflammation will quickly disappear. If your eyes are bothering you, even a little, take steps to save them now before it is too late. Many hopelessly blind might have been saved if they had cared for their eyes in time.

THINK BURLINGTON WILL SPREAD SHOPS

North Side Progressive League of Opinion the "Q" Repair Shops Will Be Enlarged

At the meeting last evening of the North Side Progressive League several topics of general interest were discussed. Chief of these was that concerning enlarging the Burlington shops in the city. The opinion was general that eventually the shops will be increased in size and that more shop work will be brought here. At present engine repairs to the extent of seventy-five thousand dollars, which should be done here, according to the league, are done out of town.

Alderman Charles Grover introduced a resolution concerning the rapping of the Black River at Cope land park, to be sent, together with a similar resolution of the council, to Congressman Esch. Rapping similar to that along Levee park is recommended. In time of flood considerable land is washed away, speakers told the league.

In an informal way the board of education was highly recommended for the economy shown in many instances in the disposition of school funds. The league will meet again next month.

STALWARTS MAY HOLD CONVENTION

"Conservative" Republicans of State May Meet to Protest Present State Government

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 15.—A suggestion, fathered, it is said by the southern Wisconsin republicans, asking for a change in the plan proposed for the conservative republican meeting which has been announced for March 20 at Madison, may be made according to members of the conservative faction here today. It is planned, they say, to ask that instead of the conference and dinner now proposed, a mass convention be held, at which protest will be made on the present methods of state government, the high taxes and other things which "peeve" the conservative faction, and at which plans shall be formulated for a definite conservative republican movement in the state, along lines of a platform to be adopted by the convention.

It even may be suggested, local leaders say, that candidates be tentatively named at the convention and placed in opposition to the other faction's primary candidates.

GIRLS FORM A SOCIETY

POKE GAMA, NEW LITERARY CLUB AT HIGH SCHOOL CHALLENGES SPARTA GIRLS TO DEBATE

A new literary society called the Poke Gama Literary society has been formed during the semester at the high school. The society is a girls' society entirely. The officers for the semester are: President, Ethel Mable; vice president, Mamie Olson; secretary, Birdelle Morrison; treasurer, Miss Johnson.

Although the society is still young it already has an enrollment of fifty-five members. These girls are members of all classes and no one who has applied for admission up to the present has been refused.

While the chief aim of the society is not debate work, a few debates have been given by the members as parts of the program. The local society has gone so far in this branch of literary work as to challenge the Athenian Girls' literary society of Sparta to an inter-society debate to take place some time during the next semester. The challenge has been answered to the effect that they will accept the challenge and will arrange the date at some future time. Their programs to the present time have consisted mainly of recitations, debates and lectures on various subjects by members of the faculty. The society has arranged to have a social meeting next Tuesday evening after school for their own members.

The demand for such a girls' literary has been felt for some time as the former Artemis literary society has been broken up.

The Kind You Have Always Bought.

THIS is the caution applied to the public announcement of Castoria that has been manufactured under the supervision of Chas. H. Fletcher for over 30 years—the genuine Castoria. We respectfully call the attention of fathers and mothers when purchasing Castoria to see that the wrapper bears his signature in black. When the wrapper is removed the same signature appears on both sides of the bottle in red. Parents who have used Castoria for their little ones in the past years need no warning against counterfeits and imitations, but our present duty is to call the attention of the younger generation to the great danger of introducing into their families spurious medicines. It is to be regretted that there are people who are now engaged in the nefarious business of putting up and selling all sorts of substitutes, or what should more properly be termed counterfeits, for medicinal preparations not only for adults, but worse yet, for children's medicines. It therefore devolves on the mother to scrutinize closely what she gives her child. Adults can do that for themselves, but the child has to rely on the mother's watchfulness. Genuine Castoria always bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

This Home-Made Cough Syrup Will Surprise You

Costs Little, but there is Nothing Better at any Price. Fully Guaranteed.

Here is a home-made remedy that takes hold of a cough almost instantly, and will usually conquer an ordinary cough in 24 hours. This recipe makes a pint—enough for a whole family. You couldn't buy as much or as good ready-made cough syrup for $2.50.
Mix one pint of granulated sugar with 1 1/2 pint of warm water, and stir 2 minutes. Put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle, and add the Sugar Syrup. This keeps perfectly and has a pleasant taste—children like it. Bracing up the appetite and is slightly laxative, which helps end a cough.
You probably know the medical value of pine in treating bronchial asthma, bronchitis, spasmodic croup and whooping cough. Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, rich in guaiacol and other natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this combination.
The prompt results from this inexpensive remedy have made friends for it in thousands of homes in the United States and Canada, which explains why the plan has been imitated often, but never successfully.
A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

DISCUSSION OF KUBELIK PROGRAM

Isidor Tippmann Comments on the Numbers to Be Played by Noted Violinists

(By Isidor Tippmann.)

Jan Kubelik, the distinguished violinist who appears in a recital tomorrow evening at Normall hall, will present a program of gems of the violin literature. A short chat about the program numbers will perhaps be agreeable to the readers of The Tribune.

Number one will be the "Fourth Concerto" by Vieuxtemps. It is the most interesting of the five concertos by this composer and also the most difficult. I would call particular attention to the second movement, the "Adagio Religioso," with its imposing chords in the piano accompaniment and the deep religious feeling proclaimed by the violin. Number two of the program is the first movement from the celebrated violin concerto by Tschaiakowsky. It is one of the most difficult works for the violin and in contents different from any other violin concerto. It is full of the Russian spirit.

Number four is the "Rondo Capriccioso," by Saint Saens, a number which by its sparkling beauty has tempted violinists of all grades and shades to attempt to play it. But very few succeed in making it the thing of beauty which it is when well done. The popular "Humoreske," by Dvorak, will no doubt be much appreciated.

"Czarda Scenes," by Hubay, is a brilliant piece in genuine Hungarian spirit and demands fleet fingers and a graceful bow.
The last number of the program, "Souvenir de Moscow," by Wieniawski, consists of two Russian folksongs in variation form. It is full of harmonies or flute tones and as Mr. Kubelik is a specialist of distinction in this difficult part of violin technique, a brilliant performance of this number may be expected.

Mr. Kubelik will no doubt give the audience a taste of his playing of Paganini's works during the evening.

TENEMENT FIRE IS FATAL TO FIREMAN

Boston Department Hampered in Fight by Gale and Zero Weather

BOSTON, Mass., Jan. 15.—One fireman was killed, two men were seriously injured and damage estimated at $150,000 was caused by a spectacular fire which early today destroyed the Bacon department store, 217 1/2 Washington street, and a building adjoining. While the wind blew a gale and the thermometer registered 10 below, seventy-five families were rushed into the streets in their night clothes when the sparks were carried nearly a mile and caused forty roof fires.

Buildings immediately across the street were saved with the greatest of difficulty as the streets were soon slippery with ice and the extreme cold handicapped the firemen.
J. A. Hackett, a fireman, was killed instantly when a portion of the wall fell.

FURNITURE WARMS BESIEGED FAMILY

Beardsley Chops Up Chairs

Posse

PROMISE ATTACK THIS AFTERNOON

Sheriff Sends Ultimatum to Farmhouse to Surrender or Meet
Onslaught

MAYVILLE, N. Y., Jan. 15.—If Edward Beardsley, surrounded in his home near here by armed deputies, does not surrender peaceably by 2:30 o'clock this afternoon, his farm house will be destroyed. This ultimatum was sent Beardsley by Sheriff Anderson at noon. If Beardsley does not comply, all Anderson's posse of twenty-five will charge the house and take the man, dead or alive.

Chops Up Furniture
While Beardsley chopped up the furniture in his barricaded home to keep his children from freezing, twenty-five deputies armed with rifles continued their watch today in the hope of starving out Beardsley, who shot Poormaster Putnam of Chautauqua county, when he sought to take the nine children to the poor house.

Beardsley came from the house during the night and tore off boards for fuel, but the deputies did not fire on him. They could then hear him cutting up furniture and throwing it on the fire. As deputies shifted their position today, Beardsley would fire an occasional shot, but all were wide of their mark.

Rural Mail Carrier Van Cise and William Walker, a friend of Beardsley, approached the house and tried to parley with the man. In answer to their calls, Beardsley appeared at the window. He was wild eyed and icicles covered his moustache and beard. He had a cartridge belt around his waist and on a table back of him were a revolver, another rifle and a shotgun. Beardsley savagely ordered two men away.

Promises Death to Attackers
They told him escape was impossible and that the best thing he could do would be to give himself up. Beardsley only laughed at them. He said the first man and the second and, perhaps, the third man to enter the house, would be killed, though they were his own brothers. After that they might get him, he said.

The doctors who are caring for Putnam stated today that their patient had an even chance for recovery.

CHOLERA LOSS BIG

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 15.—Adding impetus to a movement established today for a nation-wide fight against hog cholera, Senator W. S. Kenyon of Iowa, addressing the annual farmers' congress, declared that the loss to the United States from the disease last year was one billion pounds of pork, or ten pounds for every man, woman and child.

He declared this added materially to the high cost of living.

The senator bitterly condemned "free seed" distribution by legislators and declared that $1,000,000 spent for that purpose in the past four years would have been better invested against hog cholera.

When Calver appeared at the jail he carried two cases containing silk pajamas, an elegant toilet outfit, food delicacies and a small library. Asked regarding his sentence, he quoted Epictetus, "who makes the best of a situation is gifted with much wisdom."

Then he added: "I deserve this and if my punishment stops speeding, I will be glad."

INDEPENDENTS HIT FEDERAL OWNERSHIP

Score of Delegates to Telephone Convention Protest Against U. S.
Operation

CHICAGO, Jan. 15.—Government ownership of telephone lines in this country was bitterly attacked by a score of delegates to the national independent telephone association today. Not a person spoke in favor of the proposition. Discussion on the subject was caused by a resolution urging the federal government to step in and operate long distance telephone lines, in case the A. T. & T. or other long distance companies failed to make equitable agreements with local independent companies on toll connections. The resolution was tabled.

The independents went on record "favoring the enactment of such laws as will secure for every local telephone system adequate long distance connections, without discrimination and upon equal terms with other such companies furnishing long distance service; and in the event that this is not accomplished, then we favor such additional regulatory control by the federal government of interstate long distance lines as will secure this result."

The convention authorized the new board of directors elected today to formulate a plan for making toll connections to be submitted to the A. T. & T. and if agreed upon, to be handed to the attorney general for approval. The latter will then be urged to present such legislation to congress as will give the interstate commerce commission power to enforce the agreement.

N. G. Hunter of Wabash, Ind., was this afternoon elected president of the National Telephone association for one year; C. Y. McVey of Cleveland was elected vice president, and F. B. McKinnon of Topeka, Kan., was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

WAS NO REFUGE TO SAVE PEOPLE FROM FIERY ROCK

trained ready to flee northward, when Sakurashima mountain blew up. The volcano was split in twain for one-third the distance from crater to base, and began belching forth fire and lava. The fire shot into the sky for one thousand feet, making a spectacle, said the refugees, that those who saw it never will forget. The people of Sakurashima, paralyzed with fright, barely had time to realize what had happened, when the crater of the mountain blew off and the island and countryside was deluged with showers of incandescent rocks, that set fire to houses and forests.

By the lurid glare of the strange pyrotechnics display, the refugees said the people of Kagoshima could see the islanders, trapped like rats rushing up and down the Sakurashima shore, looking vainly for boats and rafts.

Many were plainly seen to die, overtaken by the red hot lava. Others were struck down by the rocks and some buried in their houses. Scores were seen to plunge into the sea, hoping to swim to Kagoshima. Some arrived safely but others disappeared in the water.

The shower of rocks from the angry mountain blocked the railway lines out of Kagoshima and the refugees already in the train had to get out and run for their lives. All over Kagoshima houses, factories and stores were in a blaze and the town was rapidly covered with a blanket of volcanic ashes. The inhabitants fled northward and some of them perished in the forests when the trees were set afire by the hot rocks.

Wireless reports today said the volcano is still in eruption with unbroken fury and several new craters have appeared. Another tidal wave overwhelmed the Kagoshima coast. The Tokio observatory authorities said more disasters, perhaps more violent, may be expected. Several other volcanoes in Japan are displaying activity.

Sakurashima volcano is in eruption today with unabated violence. The west side of Sakurashima blew out late last night, adding to the lurid appearance of the blazing island. Today all sides of the mountain and the crater were spouting flame, smoke, ashes and lava. The national observatory here predicts more serious eruptions to come.

A refugee from Sakurashima, reaching Hitoyoshi today told a graphic story of the terrible disaster.

"Blinded and burned by hot ashes," he said, "women, children and men ran for their lives. Often they collided with cattle and wild animals."

"On Monday when the fiery eruptions started, there was a rush for the boats. Many plunged in to swim to the mainland. Scores of them were drowned. Many of the aged refused to leave, saying they preferred to die at home."

Leghorn Shaken
LEGHORN, Italy, Jan. 15.—Six violent earthquakes beginning at 4:30 a. m. today sent the entire population to the streets in panic. Men, women and children, in their night robes ran hysterically up and down the street, despite the cold and snow. Even when the tremors ceased, the frightened people refused to return to their houses, and camped in the streets until sunup.

The Mediterranean was greatly agitated and huge waves rolled up along the coast. No casualties were reported and no serious damage to shipping and property occurred.

ASHLAND DISTRICT CALLED "IDEAL"

Vice Probers Told that Segregated Area Is Orderly and Graft Is Lacking

CITY COMMISSIONER HAS CLASH

Tells Investigators He Does Not Close House Because of Public Sentiment

ASHLAND, Wis., Jan. 15.—That a segregated district is maintained in this city under "ideal conditions" was among the facts learned by the legislative vice inquiry committee which devoted a day to morality here and is due in Rhinelander today.

The nearest approach to a sensation at the local inquiry was a difference of opinion between Assemblyman Bingham of the committee and City Commissioner Nohl as to the enforcement of the law against the maintenance of a vice district.

Awaits Public Demand
Mr. Nohl was asked if he was not paid to make complaints to close disorderly houses instead of throwing the burden of work upon a private citizen. The reply was that public sentiment does not warrant such action, and as is usual no official action is taken until complaint is made.

Mr. Bingham strongly dissented with this view and asked Mr. Nohl if he made not the slightest effort to enforce the law and if no complaints were made by citizens what could be done to enforce any law.

Cites Southern Negro

The views of Mr. Nohl were expressed by the chief of police, sheriff, district attorney and mayor. Fully nine-tenths of the questions were put by Senator Teasdale. Mayor Dennis, in giving his reason for not enforcing the law gave, as an example the case of the negroes in the south whom the law gives the right to vote, but no attempt is made to enforce it. He also stated that "when Milwaukee and Madison, the two worst offenders in Wisconsin, set an example of law enforcement the rest of the state will follow."

Senator Teasdale replied that the state is greater than any of its parts and that the state has a right to demand that all parts enforce the law.

Girl Workers Testify

Last night girl employees of stores and factories were examined but the public was excluded. The condition of factory girls and clerks was found to be good. Many of them received small wages but most of the girls live in their own homes and cases of immorality are very rare.

Teasdale Gives Praise

At the close of the hearing Senator Teasdale stated that Ashland's segregated section is conducted better than that in any other place in the state. In more than four years not a single arrest had been made and there is no collection of fines and no graft was unearthed.

Sex Hygiene Discussed

Dr. Monk raised the question of sex hygiene when Principal Shannon of the high school was on the stand. Mr. Shannon vigorously opposed teaching it in school, claiming that parents should teach it.

Y. M. C. A. Fathers and Sons Banquet January 26 Attracts Much Interest in the City

Great interest is being manifested, according to the heads of the Boys' Cabinet at the Y. M. C. A., in the father and son banquet which is to be held at the association building the evening of January 26. According to the sponsors of the affair, the function will be of city-wide proportions.

According to the rules laid down by the Boys' Cabinet, no father may attend without a son—and no son without a father. Dr. Winfield Scott Hall, Chicago, will be the principal speaker.

HENPECKED HENRY AT THE MAJESTIC

"Henpecked Henry," a robust, tempestuous comedy, good for five laughs a minute, will be presented by Jack Trainer and a company of eighteen farceurs at the Majestic theater commencing this afternoon.

The story is of a retired banker "of Kalamazoo," where the celery comes from, who, with his wife and daughter, visits Chicago on a shopping tour. The banker is a gay blade, and pursues his artful schemes with considerable success under the very nose of his "Xantippe" of a wife. Mr. Trainer in the title role keeps the audience screaming with laughter continuously. Never in the annals of vaudeville has such laughter been heard. In many towns it has been so loud and continued that it interfered with the play and the ushers have been compelled to caution the laughers against such noise.

Mr. Trainer is excellently supported by Miss Louise Willis in the part of the wife, who makes the old man "jump through a hoop" every time she snaps her fingers.

"Henpecked Henry" has been the most persistent breaker of box office records ever in vaudeville, and S. R. O. business is anticipated all during his engagement.

KUBELIK STUDIES EUGENICS IDEAS

Noted Violinist Interested in American Plan of Improving Race and Approves it to a Degree

Jan Kubelik, famous violinist with the fabulously insured fingers, arrived in La Crosse today for his appearance this evening at the normal school.

Kubelik bubbles over with fun and tolerates reporters, referring to the gentle art of being interviewed as "the fifth string of my violin." He travels all the time—even went to South America last summer—and he says the place in the world he likes best depends entirely on the weather.

He took great pleasure in exhibiting a picture of the five Kubelik youngsters on a donkey ride at their winter home in the south of France. His wife, the Countess Szell, is with him, but was fatigued from the long railroad trip.

At present the owner of the famous $75,000 Stradivarius violin and the more than $75,000 talent is interested in American eugenics, and asked many questions about the system. He approves of it—to a certain extent.

"There is something about the American 'climate,'" he said, "that seems to make people grow. I notice that immigrants who come here years ago have children that much"—indicating a distance of close to two feet—"taller than they are. It must be something in the air that makes them grow. Americans are tall and strong—they look much healthier than Europeans."

pitched battle for the possession of Federation hall at South Rande.

Those indictments not made. The were turned over to County Clerk N. F. Kaiser, who has dispatched deputies to make arrests.

It was reported this afternoon that a number of the secret indictments were in connection with the Sevierville murders, for which four Wadell guards and three local deputy sheriffs are held under $10,000 bond each, charged with the murder of two strikers.

Incredible Says Berger
MILWAUKEE, Jan. 15.—"It sounds incredible. The first indictments for conspiracy because workmen who were not chattel slaves any more, try to improve their condition by combining, were found in the thirteenth century—about 700 years," said Victor Berger today.

"I did not believe that the efforts of the workmen to form a union could be considered a conspiracy in the twentieth century and in America at that. Evidently I was mistaken as to the actual progress made. The fact is, therefore, that American workmen will have to fight for their rights as did workmen in the past. They will have to fight on the political field and make use of their ballot and change the laws and elect their own men to execute them and stamp out the 'copper snake' that is threatening the very life of the nation. But workmen must go further and change the laws so that a capitalist can have no more private property in a mine than he can have in air or in Lake Michigan."

WOULD ADJOURN BY JUNE FIRST

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Adjournment of congress by June 1 is the goal fixed upon by the house democratic leaders. Representative Underwood stated today. He told of conferences between himself, Speaker Clark and others at which it was agreed to "speed up" all business. Underwood today said the adjournment program was up to the senate. He declared that the appropriation bills and the two "administration" measures regulating the trusts and providing rural credits would take little time in the house.

GAS NEARLY KILLS SEVEN IN HOUSE

MINNEAPOLIS, Jan. 15.—Three young women narrowly escaped death and the lives of four other persons were endangered early today when escaping gas filled the rooming-house of Frank Markofke. Markofke awakened to discover the house full of gas and he went from room to room awakening his lodgers.

Chicago Grain Review

CHICAGO, Jan. 15.-Wheat traders moved cautiously at the opening today, in spite of higher Liverpool cables, and prices were a fraction lower at the start. When big houses began selling there was further decline of 1/2c in the forenoon.

The weather map was fine for shippers and farmers today and the corn futures declined 1/2c after an easier opening. The local market disregarded higher corn prices abroad.

Commission houses offered oats freely on the decline in corn and wheat and there was little demand. At noon oats futures showed losses of 1/4c to 3/4c from last night's close.

Provisions started firm and higher on account of higher hog prices, but eased off toward noon.

Wheat led in a sharp advance of all grain futures in the afternoon.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.-The stock market opened active and strong.

11 a. m.-The market absorbed a great amount of selling in the first hour and all eleven o'clock stocks were very firm at prices only a little off from the best. The activity, however, had lessened in a notable degree although this did not mean a relapse into anything like the dullness recently familiar.

At noon the market was quiet.

At 2 p. m. the market was firm.

The stock market closed strong.

LOCAL YARDS WIN AT MADISON SHOW

The Western Cornish yards of this city cleaned up in fine style at the recent Madison, Wis., Poultry show, in a strong class, on their Dark Cornish.

The Western Cornish yards won first and second cockerel; first, second, third and fifth pullet, also special for best colored male, best shaped male and best colored female. These prizes were won on eight entries.

Their first prize cockerel is making a good record, having won three first prizes this fall and winter. He won first at the Interstate fair; first at the La Crosse show and first at Madison, and several flattering offers have been refused for this bird.

The Western Cornish yards is owned by Oscar Walter and Joseph H. Poehling of this city.

SEES ROCKS FOR NELSON IN CLASH

Local Sport Fan Who Has Seen Spike Hennessy in Action Says the Big Boy Will Have to Hurry

ALL MEN WORK HARD FOR BOUT

Scrappers Training In and About Chicago with Well Known Fighters to Get Into Shape

That Spike Hennessy will give Sparta Art Nelson a fine run for his money when they clash in a ten round bout here January 24, is the belief of Jack Moore, north side sport fan, who has seen Hennessy in action and carried away with him a large respect for the 180 pounder.

"He's fast for a heavy man," said Moore, "and he knows lots about the game. Besides, he carries a k. o. wallop in either mitt."

The men who are to appear on the second card of the La Crosse Athletic club are all working hard in preparation for the bouts. Joe Wellington, clever lightweight, whose manager wants to match him with Joe Mandot in La Crosse, is working out at Nate Lewis' gymnasium in Chicago, with Joe Lang and other men of his poundage. Jack Williams, who is to be Wellington's opponent, is at the Black Oak A. C. in Chicago, getting workouts with big Tom McMahon, white hope, who has been matched with Gunboat Smith, present king of the aspirants.

Joe Bishop, Milwaukee, who is to take on Young Defoe of Red Wing, a feather with a string of scalps on his belt, is working out in Chicago at O'Connell's with Steve Ketchell and Tom Sheehan.

Spike Hennessy, the big lad whose bout with Nelson will wind up the card, is at Spring Valley, Ill., the home of Billy Papke, getting daily workouts with big Tom McMahon, white hope, who has been matched with Gunboat Smith, present king of the aspirants.

MANDOT LOSES TO JOHNNY GRIFFITH

WINDSOR, Ont. Jan. 15.—Johnny Griffith, Akron, O., lightweight, fought his way to a clean cut decision over Joe Mandot of New Orleans in an eight round bout at the Windsor Athletic club last night, and today was preparing to demand bouts with the leaders of the title chasers. It was conceded today that only Mandot's superior knowledge of the game saved him from a more serious beating. Throughout the eight rounds Griffith was the aggressor and he appeared stronger than his opponent.
